Preventing Human Trafficking at the Super Bowl and Beyond:

Mobilizing the New Orleans Community to Prevent and End Trafficking in Our Midst

October 24 & 27, 2012
Amanda Smith is a Special Agent with the U.S. Department of Homeland Security/Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) in the Homeland Security Investigations unit (HSI). She has been with HSI in the New Orleans office for six years and in her capacity as a Special Agent, Agent Smith conducts criminal investigations related to customs and immigration violations. She is currently assigned to the Worksite Enforcement and Human Trafficking Group.

Kristin Palmer is an immigration attorney and the Legal Director of the Louisiana Justice Institute. She specializes in human rights and immigration law, and has worked extensively on trafficking cases. Palmer is a graduate of Tulane University and has received numerous awards for her contributions to human rights advocacy.

Hiroko Kusuda is Assistant Clinic Professor of the Immigration Law Section of Loyola Law Clinic and Center for Public Interest Law Foundation and Tulane Journal of International and Comparative Law. She is also the AILA Chapter since 2000. She is a graduate of Tsuda College in Tokyo, Japan and Tulane University School of Law.

The Honorable Jim Letten has served for nearly thirty years as a federal prosecutor, beginning with the U.S. Department of Justice Organized Crime and Racketeering Strike Force, and is currently the longest-serving U.S. Attorney in the United States. He is a native of New Orleans, graduating from the University of New Orleans in 1976 and Tulane Law School in 1979. Immediately after passing the Bar, Mr. Letten served as an Assistant District Attorney of New Orleans, working side by side with Leon Cannizzaro, the current District Attorney of New Orleans. Mr. Letten also served for twenty years as a United States Naval Reserve Intelligence Officer, spending thirteen of those years as a fully credentialed NCIS Agent, and retiring as a Commander. During his long career as a federal prosecutor, Mr. Letten has served as Strike Force Chief and First Assistant. As First Assistant he was the lead prosecutor in the investigation, prosecution, and successful conviction of former Louisiana Governor Edwin Edwards. Currently, Mr. Letten is Chair of Attorney General Eric Holder’s Subcommittee on Organized Crime and Organized Crime and serves on the Terrorism/National Security and Environmental Issues Working Group Subcommittees. The recipient of many awards, Mr. Letten received the 2010 Anti-Defamation League’s Torch of Liberty Award for his leadership and contributions to counteracting bigotry and advancing civil rights; the Martin Luther King, Jr. special award from Louisiana Rescue Mission Fellowship; the 2010 Citizen of the Year award from the Southeast Louisiana Boy Scout Council; and was recently inducted into the Louisiana Justice Hall of Fame.

Welcome and Introduction

Welcome to Preventing Human Trafficking at the Super Bowl and Beyond: A Conference to Mobilize the New Orleans Community to Prevent and End Trafficking in Our Midst.

The Conference Steering Committee has worked hard to provide conference participants a thorough introduction to the issue of human trafficking and what we can do as a community to prevent this modern day form of slavery from occurring during the 2013 Super Bowl and going forward.

The conference has three goals:

- Raise awareness/consciousness that leads to action about human trafficking taking place in our community and around the world;
- Provide opportunities for volunteers to become involved in organizations working to end human trafficking during the Super Bowl and beyond;
- Increase conversation and coordination between the various sectors working to end human trafficking in the New Orleans community (law enforcement, survivors, elected officials, service providers, faith communities, students, community members, researchers, etc.).

We are grateful to our speakers today who will help us to recognize human trafficking in our midst, understand the law enforcement and policy tools that can prevent human trafficking, and develop the kind of coordinated community outreach to prevent human trafficking during the Super Bowl that can lead to a strong foundation for future outreach and prevention efforts. Organizations working to prevent and end human trafficking in the New Orleans area have set up displays at tables around the perimeter of the St. Charles room. Please take the time to visit with these dedicated providers to learn about their work and how you can become involved in the struggle to end trafficking in persons. Due to time limitations and the urgency of the upcoming Super Bowl, the focus of today’s conference is sex trafficking, which victimizes mainly women and children. It is hoped that future local conferences will address other aspects of human trafficking, such as labor trafficking and best practices in providing social, medical, and legal services to survivors of human trafficking.

Thank you for your participation. We hope what you learn today will inspire you to join the fight against human trafficking, which President Obama has called “one of the greatest human rights causes of our time.”

Sr. Jane Remson, O.Carm., Carmelite NGO and Dr. Sue Weishar, Jesuit Social Research Institute, Conference Co-Chairs

Speakers

Honorable Neil C. Abramson, State Representative, District 98

The Honorable Neil Abramson won 74% of the vote in his first run for public office for District 98 in 2007. In 2011 he was re-elected with 74% of the vote. His district encompasses Uptown and Broadmoor. In the Louisiana Legislature he is currently or has served on the following committees: Civil Law and Procedure, Chairman; La. Hurricane Recovery Committee, first chairperson of the committee; Health & Welfare, former member; Judiciary, former member; Legislative Audit Advisory Council, former member; and Hurricane Katrina Memorial Committee, former member. In the last legislative session Rep. Abramson lead the effort to pass legislation which creates the crime of sexual trafficking of children in Louisiana with harsh penalties attached, strengthens criminal laws against criminals who commit trafficking, and provides protection to the victims of trafficking, including allowing child victims to qualify for family need and protective services. Representative Abramson has received the following awards: Alliance for Good Government, Legislator of the Year, 2009; New Orleans City Council, Leadership in Law Award, 2009; New Orleans Magazine, People to Watch, 2008. He received a B.A. from Dartmouth College and graduated first in class at LSU Law School where he served as editor-in-chief of the Louisiana Law Review. He is a partner in the law firm of Liskow & Lewis.

Holly Burkhalter, International Justice Mission

Holly Burkhalter serves as Vice President of Government Relations for International Justice Mission (IJM). Before joining IJM, Ms. Burkhalter served as the U.S. Policy Director of Physicians for Human Rights and previously as the Advocacy Director and Washington Office Director for Human Rights Watch. Ms. Burkhalter has been published numerous times in national media outlets on human rights issues and has testified before Congress. In June 2012, she testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on models to end slavery worldwide. Ms. Burkhalter often speaks to groups on how individuals can — and should — be involved in the fight to end slavery, once and for all.

Alliece Cole, Healing Place Church

After serving over 20 years with Child Protection Services as a Crisis Investigator and with Adoptive Services as a state-wide trainer, Alliece Cole left her job and moved to Missouri to work with women leaving the sex industry. In 2006, in the wake of the devastation of Katrina, Ms. Cole returned to southern Louisiana and became the Outreach Coordinator for Healing Place Church. In 2009 she took on a new role, overseeing a federally-funded grant designed to identify and rescue victims of human trafficking. Alliece Cole also coordinated the Human Trafficking Rescue and Restore Coalition of Southern Louisiana. The coalition focuses on the I-10 corridor stretch between Baton Rouge and New Orleans, an area long-suspected of being a preferred route for traffickers. Alliece Cole has provided training at conferences for law enforcement, churches, government agencies and organizations that wish to learn more about the atrocities of Human Trafficking. Her heart is to equip and empower groups and individuals to make a difference in somebody’s life.

Deena Graves, Traffick911

Deena Graves is the founder and executive director of Traffick911. Traffick911 is driven to stop the buying and selling of American children into sexual slavery. Domestic minor sex trafficking is a crime of epidemic proportion in our country, according to the Department of Justice, and Traffick911 is actively rescuing children in the North Texas area from this horrendous crime, as well as doing work that is resulting in felony arrests. Traffick911 has numerous programs to prevent, rescue and restore victims of this crime. Deena Graves will discuss Traffick911’s work during the Dallas Super Bowl, including best practices and lessons learned.

6:30 P.M.  Keynote Address — Holly Burkhalter, International Justice Mission

7:30 P.M.  Screening of the award-winning documentary Not My Life

Saturday, October 27, 2012

8:30 A.M.  Registration

9:00 A.M.  The Game—Domestic Sex Trafficking
   Lt. William Hare, Project Star, Jefferson Parish Sheriff’s Office

In this presentation, Lt. William Hare explains “The Game” (the pimp and prostitute subculture) terminology, the rules of “The Game”, and how “The Game” can be seen and heard in our everyday life. A key characteristic of human trafficking is the use of force, fraud, or coercion. Lt. Hare will argue that a prostitute under the control of a pimp is the victim of human trafficking.

NOTE: Due to the nature of this presentation, it may contain language and material that some attendees may find offensive.

10:00 A.M.  Child Sex Trafficking in U.S. and Louisiana
   Alliece Cole, Healing Place Church

Alliece Cole is a Rescue & Restore Victims of Human Trafficking trainer and the former coordinator of the Human Trafficking Coalition of Southern Louisiana. In this presentation, she will define and describe Domestic Minor Sex Trafficking (DMST), explain how children become victims of this horrendous crime, and discuss the prevalence of DMST in Louisiana and the U.S. She will then suggest ways that communities can prevent and end the trafficking of children.

Human Trafficking defined...

Human trafficking, also known as trafficking in persons (TIP), is a modern-day form of slavery. It is a crime under federal and international law and illegal in Louisiana and almost every state in the U.S.

Federal Anti-Trafficking Laws
The Trafficking Victims Protection Act (TVPA), passed in 2000, was the first comprehensive federal law to address human trafficking or TIP. The law provides a three-pronged approach including prevention, protection, and prosecution and was reauthorized through the Trafficking Victims Protection Reauthorization Act (TVPRA) in 2003, 2005, and 2008. Under U.S. federal law, “severe forms of trafficking in persons” include:

Sex trafficking is the recruitment, harboring, transportation, provision, or obtaining of a person for the purposes of a commercial sex act, in which the commercial sex act is induced by force, fraud, or coercion, or in which the person induced to perform such an act has not attained 18 years of age, (22 USC § 7102; 8 CFR § 214.11(a)).

Labor trafficking is the recruitment, harboring, transportation, provision, or obtaining of a person for labor or services, through the use of force, fraud, or coercion for the purposes of subjection to involuntary servitude, peonage, debt bondage, or slavery, (22 USC § 7102).
